EDITORIAL.

Unforeseen difficulties arose which made it necessary to defer until the next issue the beginning of both the Hawk papers and the paper on the birds of Cedar Point. The delay is in the interest of better papers when they do begin.

We have already indicated what are some of the plans for the Bulletin for the coming year; these need not be repeated. Improvements begin with this issue and we expect them to continue during the succeeding issues. The quality of these improvements and their value we are very willing to leave to the reader. Many things which we would be glad to do must wait upon time and the means.

Migrations have already begun and nesting will be in progress shortly after this issue reaches its readers. Do not forget that one of the things you are surely going to do this year is to study carefully as many nests as your time and circumstances will permit. Blanks for recording such studies may be had by addressing either the Bulletin at Oberlin, Ohio, or Mr. Frank L. Burns, Berwyn, Pa. You are welcome to as many as you will use, or expect or hope to use.
